

ELOPING NUN WINS BATTLE AND WILL WED

Habeas Corpus Action Wins Her Freedom After Roman- tic Courtship.

FOR RECEIVERS
A majority of stockholders of the Scale Company have petitioned the Supreme Court asking that a receiver be appointed for the company, and also request a junction restraining the foreclosing mortgage.

CAUGHT LEAVING CONVENT

OMAHA, April 17.—Florence Tinsley, a sister in the Convent of the Good Shepherd, today joined her betrothed, Maxwell Hirsch, outside the convent walls. The nun was released by a writ of habeas corpus, which proved that she is of legal age, and which also showed that she had not pledged themselves to each other under the common law, which promised solemnly that they will be publicly married as soon as the girl's mother arrives in Omaha.

Mrs. Tinsley's mother, then, the convent placed her, a mere child, in the hands of the young man, who might have seduced her religiously; eventually she joined the sisterhood of the Good Shepherd, and now, with handsome, light-haired hair of twenty-five years, came here from Chicago and to employment in the laundry of the nursery.

First Man She Saw.

One day he saw Miss Tinsley leaning over the railing of the elevator-shaft on the floor above the laundry, looking down on him. She had never heard a man's voice since she entered the convent, save when a priest delivered a sermon there. Her eyes were riveted to the white walls, her daily exercise in its courtyard was taken in silence and always in company with other sisters.

Agatha and another girl, a brunette of beautiful figure, returned to the railing and looked down, however, fleetingly, on him. Not a word passed between them. Of course, he was not to be disturbed and not make love telepathically. Three months ago they began to write to each other many of the letters were sent by hand and he had to be careful not to handle any of laundry which such run makes up.

Visits Her in Convent

Visits Her in Corridor.

the girl took a nun's garb down the stairs, to her room for a fortnight ago. The slender, smooth-faced Hirsch, with her robes and, dropping the veil which she then wear when outside their corridors, he again and again entered the hall where she sat, and he would not let her go. For the first time she listened to a word to express his love. The danger of discovery, the necessity of making more poignant to her. He described to her life in the world; he brought books and magazines to her. The stories she read seemed to tell of his feelings for her, and beyond the convent walls, Hirsch won her heart, to escape to marry him. Solemnly and secretly, in the night, they established a common-law marriage. The convent considered as binding, as their vows were chaste.

Trapped as They Fled.

They planned that Florence should escape from the cunnery on Sunday, April 12. Hirsch smuggled to his lady-love a muffled package, wearing them, with which she could pull over her head and hide her face. She was to take the package, unscrewed with dust, to a pipe in her mouth. Hirsch was to follow her from the laundry with a hammer who had been called there for a job. When he saw the package, the mother-in-law's sharp eyes penetrated the mother's plan. Florence was torn from Hirsch's arms and he was driven away. The mother-in-law supposed on her. Hirsch was instantly driven to shoot a girl and a woman for trying to elope with him. He was arrested and held in jail.

NEWS OF LABOR.

The Central Labor Union of North Adams has appointed a committee to confer with the Senator and Representatives of this district and ask them to use their influence to secure the proposed merger of the Boston & Maine and New York, New Haven & Hartford railroads, both of which local unions have also taken action. Typographical Union No. 216 will find it necessary to enter Robert Tudor as its representative to the meeting of the State House on Tuesday, April 23.

Secretary Treasurer, P. H. McMahon of the Boston & Maine said:

The unions affiliated with the North Adams Central Labor Union are not only opposed to the merger but the proposed roads, but they are not in favor of the absorption of one road by another because they are afraid of competing roads.

WOMAN PLEADS OWN ALIMONY CASE IN COURT

With no attorney to represent her, Mrs.

Mia Bartlett, of Holliston, appeared before Judge Fessenden at East Cambridge to-day and with the skill of a trained lawyer pleaded for an increase to alimony and for the custody of her three children.

As her chief witnesses she called her own sons—Nathaniel, aged eighteen; Wynnas, thirteen, and Oscar, eleven. Little Oscar's head barely reached the top of the rail in front of the witness box. All the children faced their mother in the unusual role of attorney with more or less embarrassment.

and the examination of them which she made with great thoroughness took a long time.

Mrs. Barlett secured a divorce from her husband, Nathaniel Barlett, a Holliston farmer, in April, 1907, on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment. Judge Fessenden awarded the care of the three sons to the parents of Mr. Barlett.

Now Mrs. Barlett alleges that the boys are really in her husband's care, as in his name they are living with his parents. She maintains that they are being badly treated.

The Newest Spring Models Selected Not From One or Two but From Twenty High-Grade Tailoring Houses

Suits and coats embodying all the important new style features, such as concave shoulders, close fitting collars, newest cuffs and curves at the waist-line.

Our clothes exhibit, just closed, gave you an opportunity to carefully inspect our hundreds of new models; now, with only two days before Easter, the important question must be settled.

Out of some 470 wholesale men's clothing houses in the United States, we have made selections from 20 of the best of them, rather than to tie ourselves up to one or two dealers, who spend a fortune in advertising, which you, the consumer, must pay for.

IN A WORD, in selecting our great new spring stock, we have purchased the best models from twenty of the world's best tailoring houses, at such favorable prices that we can offer you these new suits and coats at fully one-third less than the much advertised "trade mark" brands.

Some of the exclusive styles in our great stock, controlled by us for Boston, are:

- The new Dandy, spat suit, for young men, with fancy vest and spats to match, as well as other exclusively new features, $30 value at $17.50.
- The new silk lined tuxedo suit, $25 value at $14.25.
- The "Dutchess" trousers, with our offer of "10c for a button which comes off," $1 for a rip, and a new pair if you are dissatisfied."
- The famous U. S. Serge suits, that will positively hold their color, guaranteed all wool. Made by Kirschbaum Co. Reg. $25.00 suits at $17.25.

FRANK GOLD AND WIFE PART ANGRY TFF BIG BENEFIT

BROTHER OF GEORGE AND COUNTESS ANNA
THREATENED WITH DIVORCE SUIT.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Rumors that Frank Jay Gould and his beautiful wife are to be permanently and legally separated, apparently took definite form today. Whether papers have actually been served to still uncertain. Indeed, Gould's personal counsel, continues to be heard, it cannot talk Mr. Gould needs any defense. It is not said, but it is all that can be obtained from Mrs. Edward Kelly, the wife's mother.

The Goulds are not just now living together. They and their two children were at the Plaza until a month ago. There were hints that their marriage life was unhappy, but when their marriage in 1874, which had been under repair, was ready for recovery they moved there to the Plaza.

The wife's family was Catholic and Mrs. Gould, formerly Miss Helen Margaret Kelly, inherited a large fortune from her father. She was once known chiefly for his social life, but she has since been engaged actively in charitable work. Her husband, another brother of the late George Gould, died in 1894.

It was supposed that the present period of estrangement was due to his jealousy at the attention his wife's family had been shown by his wife's former husband.

You Can't Cure Constipation With a Whip

The cause of constipation is the use of harsh physic. It begins with the occasional use of salts and harsh pills. They irritate the bowel lining, as shown by the gripping and pain. Then Nature hardens that lining, just as she hardens the skin where you constantly irritate it. The lining like the skin—becomes calloused. The natural functions cease. Then you take physic oftener—then larger doses. Eventually the bowel lining grows so hard that you have chronic constipation.

"Pills" can't cure that trouble, for they are the cause of it. You must do now what you should have done at first. Take nothing but Cascarets.

Take one night and morning if the bowels are calloused. But the lining will soon become natural. Then you'll need less. Before very long, the bowels do all that is necessary. Then you are well. But the next time the bowels need temporary help, remember not to take them.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with C.C.P. on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

Cascarets
The real pocket-size 10 count. The small treatment box 25 count. 12,000,000 boxes and annually.

PASTOR KILLS SELF IN HOTEL

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—The Rev. George W. Thompson, pastor of the Woodbury Presbyterian Church, one of the largest congregations in South Jersey, committed suicide by shooting himself in the chest with a revolver in his hotel room at the Hotel Woodbury. His body was found with a bullet wound in his chest when he was found by a waiter on the morning of his death. The pastor was a great scholar and a devoted minister. He was 45 years of age and had been married for 15 years. His death was a great loss to his church and community.

Representative Underhill's Idea of Justice

Mr. Underhill got a chance to talk in the Legislature yesterday.

"I am surprised," he said, "that the Republicans in this House and that the Democrats, too, should be led into taking up the fight of a man who is an independent, a little man—I don't call him a big man, because if he was he wouldn't come here to the Legislature crying for help—"

Now you know how BIG A MAN Mr. Underhill is. You grasp his idea of the duty of a Legislature.

If a little man, an "independent," comes around to the Legislature "crying for help"—why, don't give it to him, of course! But if a BIG man—AN AGENT OF THE STANDARD OIL COMPANY, OR CHARLES S. MELLE, FOR INSTANCE—wants anything, give him all he wants.

All Mr. Underhill needs to know about a bill is that it is designed to protect some "little man" who is trying to make an independent living for himself without asking the consent of the Standard Oil Company. That settles it. Throw out the little man and strangle his bill!

What right has anybody who doesn't represent a public service corporation or an artificial monopoly of some kind to come around and ask for a square deal at the hands of a Republican-Democratic Legislature anyhow?

We are glad to notice that Representative Calvin Coolidge, who is a neighbor of the "little man" in this case, was "on his feet in an instant," as the reporters have it.

Perhaps some of our "little" readers—farmers, workingmen, shopkeepers, independent manufacturers, merchants who know how the trusts are eating up the profits of every independent business—would like to read what Mr. Coolidge said to Mr. Underhill:

"I feel bound to interrupt," said Mr. Coolidge, "because the gentleman is misleading the House. Does he realize that the 'little man' that he speaks about is waging the fight of the great mass of people in this State, and that he is fighting the Oil Trust, which some of us are so solicitous about, single-handed?"

17 "That 'little man' is the one thorn in the side of the Oil Trust
18 in this State.. That 'little man' is making it possible for people in 19 his section to buy oil FIVE CENTS A GALLON CHEAPER THAN 20 PEOPLE HERE IN BOSTON CAN BUY IT.

"If that 'little man' were to go out of business or were he to be RIVEN out of business, the price of oil in every corner of this State would be put up to a point that would make it almost prohibitive.

"The Oil Trust wouldn't be content to simply drive Mr. Hagen—and I'm proud to name him—out of business. They would boost the price and make the people pay an extortionate fine for ever having harbored the 'little man.'"

Mr. Hise's bill to force trusts to deal with the public on equal terms in all parts of the State was passed to third reading in the House. It will soon come up in the Senate, where the "big" men whom Mr. Underhill aims to please are usually able to get what they want.

We regret we are unable to print a photograph of the people's representative who thinks a bill to prevent discrimination by the trusts ought to be killed because a little man, an independent, asks for it. Perhaps we shall obtain one of his pictures in a few days and let the public see what he looks like.

ONE was telling me about the million-dollar potato patch that somebody or other was cultivating or going to cultivate up in New York Central Park.

Funny, isn't it? But those potatoes will be just plain, everyday potatoes, and not strawberries or pineapples or anything like that. Even if the ground they are planted in is worth a million dollars.

Sometimes it seems as if the powers that really govern this world don't care so very much about money, after all. So the million-dollar potato will look just the same, taste just the same and be just the same as the potato that the Chinese grow in the district of their little patch behind the henhouse.

I wonder if people aren't a good deal more interested in potatoes than in money. I've met a few millionaires in my life, and I never could see that they were any more interested in money than I am.

Their heads had ached, and they had to go to the dentist, and they went through with the grip just like the man who mowed the lawn for them. They had a potato, and a potato, and a potato, and not all the money in the world can change you into a pomegranate.

I know a girl whose father sends her to the finest and most fashionable school in America. He buys her money to the school mistress who is supposed to teach the girl good manners. The girl, however, has a knife any time she wants, and she has learned that it isn't the thing to chew gum on the streets, and she has learned that it isn't the right manner and her soul hasn't gained one crumb of old perdition.

She laughs, and old perditions poor old mother smudges any one who has something she wants to get.

A potato she was born, and a potato she will die. The world is the million-dollar potato patches in the world. I wonder if money does amount to such

And I have seen the great judgment day is if the dead were already in heaven.

ETERNAL PROGRESS?
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:
All men profess to believe in their profession, believe the Bible and they should not try and dodge the points which hurt them. I am a Unitarian, and I believe in the tolerant eternal life, or in other words, shall be true Gillette not having eternal life. I am a Unitarian, and I believe in the number one would puzzle any of the materialists. I am a Unitarian, and I believe in the soul's domain.

There may be such a thing as eternal progression, for there are here a few who shall be left this life the next life. I find that the Bible teaches everlasting life for all. I believe that the Bible teaches that the soul that they died Adamant, according to the Unitarian belief, that the soul that they were followers of Christ; therefore, could not have eternal life, for the same book says in the Bible that the soul that they were followers of Christ they must be in Adam, the soul that they were followers of Christ.

Because of It, Rich People Often Cause Great Suffering by Failing to Pay Debts Promptly

BY ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

THE large charities of many wealthy people can never make amends for their thoughtless and selfish indifference regarding their small debts. Over and over I hear of suffering, humiliation and discomfort caused by the really good-hearted but thoughtless rich people of the land.

For instance, a milk dealer told me of 4300 cows in his winter twenty pupils, who were ready to study all Summer with me and pay my living expenses as boarders."

This millionaire gives largely to charity, and means to be generous with his money. But one act of such cruel selfishness (for thoughtlessness is only another name for selfishness) has cost him many a gift which looks large in the eyes of men seen small in the eyes of God. He has thus supposedly benevolent millions, but he has mean and the niggardly souls of earth.

Stunts the Soul

NO doubt a man who inherits millions of dollars, and who has never earned a penny in his life, finds it difficult to understand how a matter of three or four hundred dollars can cause a plebe or gladden another's life, unless that other is in a hospital or an asylum.

to settle. I can't afford to ask them for it, as I'll lose their trade if I do."

A paper dealer told a similar story of another rich New York man, who had owed him a hundred dollars for six months.

Only the greatest of mental and spiritual natures can expand into sympathetic understanding of life in an atmosphere of wealth and luxury and idleness.

There is nothing so liable to grow

Selfishness!

FRENCH teacher was obliged to give up the Summer cottage he had rented in the country. He had bought a twenty-park's famous residence on one of New York's famous boulevards went abroad to the United States.

The rent of the cottage was to be paid by the professor, but he had relied upon this sum, earned in the United States, to pay for his French during the Winter.

"For comfort, they will pay me when I am in the country," he said, "but meantime I lose, not only my French, but my money."

By James J. Montague

If perchance you've a wife whose one object in life
Is attainment of social position,
And she finds she can't get in the niftiest set,
Don't let her abandon ambition.
You need but resort to the highest court
On the eve of a Four Hundred function,
And pray that the Judge quash society's grudge
Against the fair dame by injunction.
And then, if by footman or page she's molested
When she tries to break in, his can have him arrested.

It's further should chance that by some circumstance
You belong to the light-fingered gentry.
And, your living to make, you've occasion to break
Into houses by forcible entry.
Don't feel ill at ease if you highly displease
Your victim; respect his compunction
Against your profession, but at the next session
Of court get a first-class injunction;
And once you are safely provided with that,
He can't call a cop when you go through his flat.

'F, 'twixt virtue and sin, the last mentioned has been
 To your mind decidedly sweeter,
 And you're not very sure, when you show them, that your Credentials will get by St. Peter,
 Don't let him insist that his gold lettered list
 Of fortunate souls don't include you;
 Any mundane J. P. will inform him that he Would get in contempt to exclude you.
 For nothing on earth or in heaven falls short
 Of the awful control of his honor the court!
